Chapter 1: Mrs. Whatsit

"In her attic bedroom Margaret Murry, wrapped in an old patchwork quilt, sat on the (1)_____ of her bed and watched the trees tossing in the frenzied lashing of the wind. Behind the trees clouds (2)_____ frantically across the sky. Every few moments the moon ripped through them, creating wraith-like shadows that raced along the (3)_____."

"Mrs. Whatsit tugged at her second book. 'I said,' she grunted, shoving her foot down in, 'that there is' -- (4)_____ -- 'such and thing' -- shove 'as a tesseract.' Her foot went down into the boot, and grabbing (5)_____, scarves, and hat, she hustled out the door. Mrs. Murry stayed very still, making no move to help the (6)_____ woman. As the door opened, Fortinbras streaked in, panting, wet and shiny as a seal. He looked at Mrs. (7)_____ and whined."

Chapter 2: Mrs. Who

"Calvin tried now politely to direct his words toward Meg as well as (8)_____ Wallace, 'When I get this feeling, this compulsion, I always do what it tells me. I can't explain where (9)_____ comes from or how I get it, and it doesn't happen very often. But I obey it. And this (10)_____ I had a feeling that I must come over to the haunted house. That's all I know, kid. I'm (11)_____ holding anything back. Maybe it's because I'm supposed to meet you. You tell me.'"

Chapter 3: Mrs. Which

"Suddenly (12)_____ eyes seemed to spring at them out of the darkness; it was the moonlight striking on Mrs. Who's glasses. (13)_____ was standing next to Charles Wallace, and how she managed to appear where a moment ago there had been (14)_____ but flickering shadows in the moonlight Meg had no idea. She heard a sound behind her and turned around. (15)_____ was Mrs. Whatsit scrambling over the wall."

Chapter 4: The Black Thing

"They had left the silver glint of (16)_____ biting autumn evening; and now around them everything was golden with light. The grasses of the field were a (17)_____ green, and scattered about were tiny, multicolored flowers. Meg turned slowly to face a mountain reaching so high into (18)_____ sky that its peak was lost in a crown of puffy white clouds. From the trees at the base (19)_____ the mountain came a sudden singing of birds. There was an air of such ineffable peace and joy all (20)_____ her heart's wild thumping slowed."

"It was a shadow, nothing but a shadow. It was not even as tangible (21)_____ a cloud. Was it cast by something? Or was it a Thing in itself?"

Chapter 5: The Tesseract

"Without (22)_____, coming as a complete and unexpected shock, she felt a pressure she had never imagined, as though she were (23)_____ completely flattened out by an enormous steam roller. This was far worse than the nothingness had been; while she (24)_____ nothing there was no need to breathe, but now her lungs were squeezed together so that although she was (25)_____ for want of air there was no way for her lungs to expand and contract, to take in the (26)_____ that she must have to stay alive. This was completely different from the thinning of the atmosphere when they (27)_____ up the mountain and she had had to put the flowers to her face to breathe. She tried to (28)_____, but a paper doll can't gasp. She thought she was trying to think, but her flattened-out mind was as (29)_____ to function as her lungs; her thoughts were squashed along with the rest of her. Her heart tried to (30)_____; it gave a knifelike, sidewise movement, but it could not expand."

Chapter 6: The Happy Medium

"Then, all at (31)_____, they saw the same thing, and stopped to watch. In front of one of the houses stood a little (32)_____ with a ball, and he was bouncing it. But he bounced it rather badly and with no particular rhythm, (33)_____ dropping it and running after it with awkward, furtive leaps, sometimes throwing it up into the air and trying (34)_____ catch it. The door of his house opened and out ran one of the mother figures. She looked wildly (35)_____ and down the street, saw the children and put her hand to her mouth as though to stifle a (36)_____, grabbed the little boy and rushed indoors with him. The ball dropped from his fingers and rolled out into (37)_____ street."

Chapter 7: The Man With Red Eyes

"Now, my dears,' the words continued, 'I shall of course have (38)_____ need of recourse to violence, but I thought perhaps it would save you pain if I showed you at (39)_____ that it would do you no good to try to oppose me. You see, what you will soon realize (40)_____ that there is no need to fight me. Not only is there no need, but you will not have (41)_____ slightest desire to do so. For why should you wish to fight someone who is here only to save (42)_____ pain and trouble? For you, as well as for the rest of all the happy, useful people on this (43)_____, I, in my own strength, am willing to assume all the pain, all the responsibility, all the burdens of (44)_____ and decision."

Chapter 8: The Transparent Column

"He moved rapidly down the corridor and again held up his hand (45)_____ make the wall transparent. They looked into another small room or cell. In the center of it was a (46)_____, round, transparent column, and inside this column was a man.

"FATHER!" Meg screamed."

Chapter 9: IT

"This was the (47)_____ for which she had been waiting, not only since Mrs. Which whisked them off on their journeys, but during (48)_____ long months and years before, when the letters had stopped coming, when people made remarks about Charles Wallace, when (49)_____. Murry showed a rare flash of loneliness or grief. This was the moment that meant that now and forever (50)_____ would be all right."

"Faintly she heard her father's voice, though she knew he was shouting at the top (51)_____ his lungs. 'The periodic table of elements, Meg! Say it!'"

Chapter 10: Absolute Zero

"Calvin looked at her, shaking (52)_____ head. 'It was the only thing to do. At least it got us off Camazotz.'

"'Why did we go (53)_____ Charles Wallace? Did we just leave him there?' The words that were not really hers came out cold and (54)_____.

"'We didn't 'just leave him,'" her father said. 'Remember that the human brain is a very delicate organism, and (55)_____ can be easily damaged.'"

Chapter 11: Aunt Beast

"Perplexity came to her from the beast. 'What is this dark? (56)_____ is this light? We do not understand. Your father and the boy, Calvin, have asked this, too. They say (57)_____ it is night now on our planet, and that they cannot see. They have told us that our atmosphere (58)_____ what they call opaque, so that the stars are not visible, and then they were surprised that we know (59)_____, that we know their music and the movements of their dance far better than beings like you who spend (60)_____ studying them through what you call telescopes. We do not understand what this means, to see.'"

Chapter 12: The Foolish and the Weak

"She knew!

"(61)_____.

"That was what she had that IT did not have."

"Meg knew all (62)_____ once that Mrs. Whatsit, Mrs. Who, and Mrs. Which must be near, because all through her she felt a (63)_____ of joy and of love that was even greater and deeper than the joy and love which were already (64)_____.

"She stopped laughing and listened, and Charles listened, too. 'Hush.'"
